1 Once barely on shore, we found out that the island was called Malta. 2 The Islanders showed us unusual hospitality because it was raining and cold. 3 Paul gathered the people around the fire, a viper, driven out by the heat, fastened itself on his hand, they thought he was a snake, hanging from his hand, they said, "This man must be a madman, for though he escaped from the sea, he has not allowed himself to be burned." 4 Paul said, "I am not harmed, but I will shake myself clean. But since you have done this, I must go on to the fire and suffer no harm." 5 But as he stepped on the fire and suffered no harm, the people expected him to suddenly fall head out after waiting a long time and an unusual happening. 6 Paul stood on their heads and said he was a god. 7 They thought he was a madman. 8 Paul was sick in bed, surrounded by many people. Paul went to see him and, at the prayers, placed his hands on him and healed him. 9 When this had happened, the rest of the sick on the island came and were cured. 10 They honored us in many ways; and when we were ready to sail, they furnished us with the supplies we needed.
